PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Writer)

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP)—The eastern team that comes out for the Rose Bowl game this season, even though it be one from the "ivy" colleges, where culture is so abundant it has to be swept off the campus like leaves, will have to learn its ABC's all over again.

Not the old-fashioned ABC's, with their "A" is for allmomy, "B" is for bellboy and "C" is for corpse, but the University of California ABC's which are something altogether different. For at Berkeley, where Coach Stub Allison has put together one of the strongest football teams in a decade, A is for the first varsity, B for the second, and C for the third.

The team that meets California in the Rose Bowl will see all three of them, and it is not going to have an easy time figuring out which is the toughest. I saw the California first, second, and third teams in action Saturday against Oregon, and the tip-off on what a healthy baby that C group is that it more than held its own with an Oregon varsity that was good enough a week earlier to trounce Washington State.

The C varsity played the final quarter and yielded nothing. The B varsity was Coach Allison's choice for duty in the preceding period, and all it could do was take the ball on its own 20-yard line and blaze 80 yards up the field for a touchdown. In this march the second stringers uncovered a pair of brilliant backs in Ingram and Anderson, and a line that rattled the big Oregon forward wall.

This brings us, in backward fashion, to the California varsity—the A group that started the ball game and belabored the opposition during the first half. Working on a field that was ankle deep in slime—the Multnomah gridiron has a sand and tanbark surface, and had been subjected to a two-day rain—the Golden Bears hammered across three touchdowns, and missed another by a yard.

This California first team, on Saturday, was far and away the most impressive eleven I have seen all year. It didn't have a flaw, and it went about the business of winning the ball game with the poise of those old Rockne teams. The boys paid no attention to the miserable footing. Surely and calmly they tore Oregon apart and punched touchdowns through the holes.

There isn't a weak spot on the line from Dolman at left end to Schwartz at the right wing. And in Herwig at center California has a genuine bear. The backfield, on Saturday at least, was tremendously impressive. Vic Bottari took the field hailed as the star call carrier, and he played like one, yet he was not quite as efficient as one Sam Chapman. Chapman, a rangy fellow, is a power runner with a fine burst of speed, and he can pass and kick the best.

Another A backfielder is Meek, an uncomplicated lad who throws blocks all afternoon, and throws 'em right.

There will be no rout in the Rose Bowl this year. That is, if California is the Pacific representative, and the Bears appear to be a cinch to get the bid. To beat them the eastern team will have to master a new set of ABC's—a set that averages 188 in weight, and is plenty tough.

3 PLACERVILLE YOUTHS LEAVE MONDAY ON MEXICO TOUR

Three Placerville youths are planning a six-week automobile trip through the southwest and into Mexico during which they expect to travel about 8,000 miles.

The trio consists of Elbert Gray, Harry Sammis and Frank Shafer, Jr. Their route will take them to Los Angeles, Boulder Dam, the Grand Canyon and other points of interest in the southwest and they hope to return home about Christmas.

Mrs. Ronald Giffen and son Richard, were Monday callers from Shingle Springs.

Lloyd L. Vye, educational advisor at Snowline CCC camp, returned Saturday from a two-week vacation in the southern part of the state. Mr. Vye came up from Pasadena, bringing with him his son, Lloyd, who had been visiting there with grandma.

LOVED COUNTY NATIVE TAKEN

Mrs. Elizabeth Rust To Be Laid At Rest Tuesday; Was Born At Deer Valley

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Fleming Rust, a native of the Deer Valley district and a daughter of pioneers in that section, was summoned on Sunday at a hospital in Placerville where she had been a patient for several days following an acute illness at her home.

The funeral services will be held from Memory Chapel on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Charles W. Null, formerly of Placerville and an old friend of the family, will come from Healdsburg to conduct the services.

Interment will be at Union Cemetery, with services at the graveside conducted by the officers and members of Leona Rebekah Lodge No. 30, of which Mrs. Rust had been an officer for more than twenty years.

Resident in Placerville for thirty-five years, Mrs. Rust had a wide circle of friends throughout the county in addition to those she made in later life in the county seat. All held her in high esteem.

Of cheerful disposition, she was a generous and kindly neighbor and a devoted companion and help-mate to her husband, Will Rust, to whom the sympathy and offers of assistance of their many friends is extended at this time.

Mrs. Rust was born at Deer Valley, near Rescue, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fleming, who were pioneers of 1852. Mrs. Fleming had come to America and to California by boat, from Wales. Mr. Fleming immigrated from Germany and came to California across the plains.

Deceased spent her girlhood in the Deer Valley section and moved with her husband to Placerville upon their marriage thirty-five years ago, to take up housekeeping in the cottage on Nob Hill where they had since resided.

Council To Sell Bonds Tonight

Advancement Of Project To Improve City's Sewer System Is Scheduled

Bids will be opened by the city council at its meeting this (Monday) evening, on the city's $50,000 sewer improvement bond issue.

The bonds are to draw interest at 3½ per cent, payable semi-annually and the final date of maturity is December 1, 1967.

In addition to the sale of the bonds, it is expected that the meeting will result in the transaction of other business related to advancement of the sewer improvement project, which is to be completed by the city in co-operation with the PWA, from which confirmation of a grant has been received.

Harry N. Jenks, Berkeley sanitation expert and consulting engineer for the city on the project, will be present, in addition to Clifton Wildman, resident engineer.

Lions Return From District Meeting

Lion Thomas Maul, district governor of Lions for Zone 4-A, returned to Placerville Monday morning from Santa Barbara, where he spent Saturday and Sunday at a district governors' meeting.

Lions D. W. Babcock and C. E. Barker flew with Lion Maul to Santa Barbara Saturday morning, and the two first-named returned home by plane that evening.

They report they were about three hours in the air from Placerville to Santa Barbara and about the same time returning home.

The three Lions all called on Lion and Mrs. Fred N. Hosking, who have been at Santa Barbara several weeks in the hope of improving Fred's health.

Phil Volz, of Fruitridge, who took a leave of absence from his duties in this office two months ago, and who recently returned from the Ft. Miley Veterans' Hospital, was in town Monday and feeling much improved in health.

PRESENTS FOR THE QUINCE—Papa Oliva Dionne, father of the famed Canadian quinceañera, shown in New York with Christmas toys he bought for his family while on a visit there. They were: Laundry set, ironing board, Yvonne; washing machine, Emille; electric fan, Cecile. Papa also bought a hat for her.

280 DINNER GUESTS AT STOCK MEETING

Semi-Annual Gathering, Held At Ione Saturday, Has State Leaders On Program

There were two hundred eighty guests at the semi-annual dinner of the Amador-El Dorado Livestock Association, held Saturday at Ione.

The dinner came in the evening, following opening of business sessions at the Women's Clubhouse at 11 o'clock in the morning, and an afternoon speaking program, which included a talk by Hugh Baber, of Chico, California Cattleman's president; and John Curry, state secretary.

The Amador-El Dorado Livestock Association is a branch of the California Cattleman's Association.

Much interest was shown in the remarks of representatives of the California Cattle Protection Service, who explained recent legislative enactments relating to the branding of cattle.

The dinner was followed by a semi-annual dance. The annual meeting of the association will be held as usual, at Placerville in April.

GAS GUN SUSPECT BOUND OVER FOR TRIAL IN SUPERIOR COURT

Hamilton Flint, charged with possession of a tear gas gun in violation of the state law, was bound over for trial in the Superior Court at a preliminary hearing held Monday morning before Justice of the Peace T. F. Lewis.

Flint, said to come from Sacramento, had been arrested on Main Street in Placerville by city police officers, who suspected him of intoxication.

On searching him, they report finding the tear gas gun and he was held of a felony charge.

The gas gun has all the appearances of a fountain pen, being but slightly larger. Officers report it would be capable of temporarily incapacitating any person at whom it might be directly aimed and discharged.

BENNETT PARK CLOSED TO PROTECT PUBLIC PROPERTY

P. J. Hall, of the Board of Supervisors and a member of the Bennett Memorial Park Committee, announced today that due to the fact that several persons have been so indiscreet as to commit malicious mischief at the Marcus P. Bennett Memorial Park, the Park Commission has deemed it advisable, at least for the time being, to close the entrances to the Park. This does not mean that games and usual amusements will not be held, and each of the gates will be opened for any and all proper occasions.

Taber "Drafted" Again To Head Grange

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UP)—Louis J. Taber, Columbus, O., was re-elected Master of the National Grange today at its 71st annual convention.

He expressed a desire to relinquish the $5000 a year post to enter private business but was overruled by the delegates. Taber, Master of the Grange for 14 years, begins his eighth two-year term.

Lake Valley Lady Passes

Services Held Saturday At Oakland For Mrs. Hansen, Who Died Thursday

The many friends of Mrs. Alberta Hansen, well-known civic and community worker of Lake Valley, were shocked to learn of her death last Thursday, at Oakland.

Mrs. Hansen was the first president of the Lake Valley Community Club, formed at the south end of Lake Tahoe in 1932, and had been active for several years in community leadership in Lake Valley.

The last rites were held on Saturday at Oakland and burial was at that place.

Mrs. Hansen is survived by her husband, Walter Hansen, and two children, Robert and Carol.

COMMERCE CHAMBER TO MEET REGULARLY ON NOVEMBER 22

The November meeting of the Chamber of Commerce has been postponed until next Monday night, November 22.

The meeting was set over one week to avoid a conflict with a scheduled meeting of the Mother Lode Highway Association at Plymouth on this, Monday, evening. However, the highway meeting has failed to develop.

The chamber officers decided to abide by the postponement, rather than risk the hazards of further confusion in the minds of members, by making a second change in the meeting time.

700 Bombs Blast China Lines In 30 Hours.

SHANGHAI, (UP)—A terrific bombardment of Soochow, 45 miles west of Shanghai, by Japanese airplanes, was reported from Nanking today.

The reports said more than 700 bombs had been dropped in 30 hours as the Japanese sought to smash the defense line.

Mrs. Wilbur Timm was a visitor on Monday from near Kelsey.

CONGRESS CONVENES TODAY IN SPECIAL SESSION

President's Message, Read To Congressional Leaders At Morning Conference, Offers 4-Point Plan Against "Marked Recession In Industrial Production"

By LYLE C. WILSON

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, (UP)—President Roosevelt today committed himself to limited tax law revision to remove injustices and proposed to an extraordinary session of Congress a four point legislative program as a first line defense against "marked recession in industrial production and industrial purchases."

The special session met at noon after the President conferred with congressional leaders and read to them his message. He did not deliver the message to Congress in person.

SACRAMENTO CONCERN IS LOW BIDDER ON SCHOOL JOB

When bids were opened by the trustees of Placerville Grammar school last Friday afternoon, for the contract to erect an addition to the school plant under plans as previously announced, it was found that the bid of the Azevedo Construction Company, of Sacramento, offering to do the work for $41,850, was low.

The board of trustees is unable to award the contract, pending approval of the contract by the PWA, since the contemplated improvement is one made possible by a grant of PWA funds to be used in co-operation with funds raised by the district through the sale of bonds as voted during the past summer.

Eagles And Auxiliary Unite For Supper

Placerville Eagles have initiated members of the lodge Auxiliary to be their guests at a turkey supper on Monday evening, Nov. 22, at the I. O. O. F. hall at 6:30 o'clock.

It is planned that, following dinner, the two groups will adjourn to their respective halls for short business meetings, following which they will meet together again for a program of entertainment, dancing and a social evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Molinari were shopping Sunday at Sacramento.

Committing himself to tax revision to remove inequities suffered by small business and non-speculative investors, Mr. Roosevelt reasserted his belief that the Supreme Court hereafter would interpret the constitution more in conformity with New Deal interpretations to permit operation of proposed farm crop control.

Mr. Roosevelt asked Congress to provide:

1. Wage and hours legislation.
2. An "all weather" crop control program.
3. Reorganization of executive departments.
4. National planning for better use of natural resources.

Mr. Roosevelt proposed tax "modifications adequate to encourage productive enterprise," but explained that he sought primarily to aid small business and would oppose tax favoritism to the corporate form at the expense of individual or partnership undertaking.

The President said exercise of "ordinary prudence" would protect the nation against prolonged business recession. He explained that conditions now are not parallel with those which prevailed on the brink of the 1929 depression pit.

Mr. Roosevelt reiterated his intention to balance the next fiscal year budget. He demanded that Congress find and provide new revenue for any added expenditures authorized now.

The message eliminated anti-monopolistic amendment of the anti-trust laws from the White House special session agenda. But Mr. Roosevelt said he would have further recommendations for Congress, including proposals to encourage private capital to undertake housing construction on a big scale.

Reorganization Bill Delayed

House Sub-Committee Favors Two Plans For Tax Relief For Nation's Business

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Administration house leaders said today that plans for putting government reorganization bills ahead at the special session had been abandoned and that the house will delay action on all major legislation until the farm bill is ready.

This program was announced after leaders conferred with Rep. John J. Cochran, D. Mo., chairman of the house committee in charge of reorganization measures. It resulted from a decision in the senate, leaders said, to take up the Byrnes reorganization bill immediately.

The house ways and means tax sub-committee tentatively decided to grant business two new relief measures.

They are:

1. Provision permitting carry-over of operating losses for one year to apply against adjusted net income the following year in arriving at the undistributed profits tax figure.
2. Exemption from the tax of all corporations with a net income of $5,000 a year or less. This will affect about two thirds of all corporations earning an income.

HOME ECONOMICS CLASS TO ENTERTAIN BOARD AND FACULTY

The Home Economics department at the high school will entertain the governing board of the school, and their ladies, and faculty members and their wives or husbands, at a dinner at the high school on Wednesday evening.

This is an annual event. The Thanksgiving motif will prevail and dinner will include roast turkey and the usual trimmings.

This & That

By The Tattletale

Now for a few comments on business—an item quite neglected by us so far. Recent dollar losses amounting into billions on the stock market have caused no small concern to the small investor as well as those on Wall Street. Steel stocks, which are a general barometer for all issues have not been behaving as was anticipated earlier in the year—from a high of over 90 per cent production the figure has fallen to a depressing low of 51 per cent. But behind this drop is the fact that the automobile industry, which is steel's biggest buyer, is the period of changing models and production of 1938 cars has not yet assumed its full stride. Whether the automobile demands for steel will take up slack is not too certain as the consumer demand for new cars is none too healthy at this time. Heavy industries demand for steel has been curtailed due to the resitancy on the part of corporations for replacements and reconstruction of its properties and equipment—not that replacement is not necessary, but capital is being withheld on the plea of caution. New financing is in the doldrums—again the argument of caution and uncertainty. This attitude of large industry has permeated the general public and is reflected in the lack of new building. We must justly ask why all this ultra-caution? For one thing, the stringent regulations of the Securities Exchange Commission and the red tape necessary in floating issues. The regulations were made during the depression to eradicate the evils of pre-1929 financing but now it to play ball. Until this is done, we see little hope for the flow of capital into new construction. On the bright side of the picture is the fact that the chief of the Securities Exchange Commission, William O. Douglas possesses the characteristic of conservative and careful regulations coupled with an ideal of simplicity and abolition of useless long winded unrespectables now is vogue. We note with some optimism that the chastisement of business through various yardstick government competition is not going the full length feared by business, namely the utilities. Also there is the thought that labor will not cause the headaches prevalent during the past year due to the split of responsibility between labor and industry although all industry hasn't yet learned that labor should have has gone too far and stifled the flow of capital. What we need is a compromise between the rules and the ability some say.

Things we never knew 'till today: At one time or another every major religious denomination has been the victim of persecution in America . . . only ten per cent of the sales of United States 57,407 drug stores is represented by drugs . . . the average American citizen eats approximately 1500 pounds of food per year—one fourth of which is milk . . . seventy years ago the U. S. paid $7,200,000 for Alaska and since conducted trade amounting to $2,800,000,000, or nearly four times as much as the price paid . . . if all the money in circulation in the U. S. today were equally divided, each person would receive $50.38 while if each person paid an equal amount of the public debt, $285 would have to be paid by each citizen!—(and this isn't Republican propaganda) . . . persons slightly overweight have a better chance to live (between the ages of one and thirty) than do persons underweight . . . people are inclined to be forgetful about their savings accounts as one bank in New York City had to advertise for 3,700 depositors who had forgotten—men are worse than women in this)

Growers Express Opinions On Relief Pear Purchases

Opinions as to the effect of government purchasing for relief purposes of California Bartlett pears during the season just ending are being sent in by growers and others in the industry to E. L. Markell, chairman of the AAA Pacific Region Marketing Committee, as the result of a circular letter sent to the industry asking for frank expression as to the value of such measures.

"While there are some who reach adverse conclusions to some extent," said Markell at the AAA office in San Francisco, "the general opinion in the industry seems to be that the Government purchases constituted one of the effective factors in maintaining orderly marketing and sustaining a price above the level which might otherwise have prevailed considering the size of the crop.

"To summarize the season's results for California Bartletts: although shipments increased 12 per cent over 1936, there was a 5 per cent increase in prices. Shipments in 1937 in interstate and foreign commerce, excluding Government purchases were approximately 3,064,000 boxes. The season average price for 12 eastern auction markets was $2.45 a box. Shipments in 1936 in interstate and foreign commerce totaled 2,739,800 boxes, with eastern auction market prices averaging $2.34 per box for last season.

"The growers of Bartlett pears in California were faced not only with one of their own largest crops, but with an unusually large production of competitive crops, such as peaches and apples. Estimates indicate that the 1937 crop of Bartlett pears in California was somewhat above the 1936 crop of 201,000 tons, and the largest since the 1930 crop, when 30,000 tons of the 231,000 ton crop of that year went unharvested.

Following is a cross-section of opinions sent in by growers as to the effect of the government purchases:

James Mills, Jr., of the James Mills Orchard Corporation, Hamilton City: "We are very firmly of the opinion that the purchase of Bartlett pears made this year put an immediate and very effective bottom under the pear market and did this at a time when the relatively small volume of purchases made were adequate to take the immediate surplus off the market. Unquestionably the effect of putting a definite bottom under the market very many times pyramided the actual value of the expenditure made by the Federal government."

Carl Visman of Placerville: "Don't think much of Uncle Sam buying pears. California better get wise and stop selling and storing culls in place of buying No. 2 pears."

Charles G. Werner of Newcastle: "I do not hesitate to state that this program was a real benefit to the pear grower."

A. R. Thomas of Cunningham and Thomas, Ukiah: "To be very frank I feel that the ultimate results to the pear grower are more harmful than beneficial. . . . The knowledge that the government is taking over the surplus Bartlett pears is immediately flashed to every buying center in the United States. The thought is at once created that here is a huge surplus of Bartlett pears. This thought is planted in the minds of the buyers as well as the retail trade. The people wait thinking that pears will get cheaper."

H. E. Butler of the Penryn Fruit Co., Penryn: "Taking 200 cars out of the supply rolling to the eastern markets undoubtedly helped prices a little."

Orval Tadlock of the Ukiah Fruit Growers, Ukiah: "In my estimate the purchase of 200 cars of Bartletts this season had a depressing effect on the market rather than a stimulating effect. The purchasers on the other end of the deal quoted us what we were willing to sell to the Government for, therefore they did not feel that they should purchase at a very much higher price. Undoubtedly the removal of 200 cars from the market had some beneficial effect, although the market was draggy most of the season. . . . I believe that just so long as we continue with our system of consigned sales, just that long will the fruit industry be in a bad position. In my opinion, one thing that definitely contributed to a poor deal this year was that we sold off-grades to the canners. Let us all work to eliminate some of these mistakes for the coming season. . . . I sincerely hope that something can be worked out this winter that will give the growers better returns, because we have about reached the end of the rope."

J. A. Russell, Auburn: "The diverting of oversized Bartletts by the Government was a double benefit to the grower: first, by realizing a fair price; second, by relieving the market pressure."

FOLSOM RIOT TRIALS OPENED TODAY AT SACRAMENTO

SACRAMENTO (UP)—Five convict survivors of Folsom prison's Sept. 19 escape attempt were led into court under heavy guard today to face trial for the murder of Warden Clarence A. Larkin, wounded fatally in the rioting which cost four lives.

The defendants, still bearing scars of the "bloody Sunday" fighting, were Wesley E. Eudy, Fred Barnes, Albert Kessell, Ed Davis and Robert Lee Cannon.

Guarding against a renewed attempt to escape or a delivery, officers took the utmost precautions in transferring the prisoners here from Folsom. They will be locked in the five most secure cells of the county jail, where they will remain during the week, returning to Folsom each week-end.

3 MEET VIOLENT DEATHS IN SACRAMENTO AREA OVER WEEKEND

SACRAMENTO, (UP)—Traffic and hunting accidents caused the death of three men in the Sacramento valley during the week-end.

Two of the victims died when an automobile went out of control and dived into an irrigation ditch four miles east of Willows. They were John V. Ellis, 33, and William J. Stephens, 21, employees of a Willows automobile agency. Coroner Frank Sweet said Ellis suffered a broken neck and died instantly, while Stephens was trapped in the submerged car and drowned.

William Burch, 45, was killed while hunting rabbits near Yuba City. He fell after climbing over a barbed wire fence and his shotgun was discharged. The charge penetrated his heart.

Fred Schacht and Harry Soto were among those at San Francisco Sunday to see the Broncos beat the Gaels, 7 to 0.

Mr. and Mrs. George Volz, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Miller and Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Haslam spent the week-end at Dillon Beach, Marin County.

Farm Advisor Ivan Lilley left Sunday for Modesto to attend the annual farm bureau federation meeting.

THE Book Mark

By JANE VOILES

A book whose charm grows upon you as you read is "San Francisco Adventures" by Charles Caldwell Dobie. It consists of nine separate stories covering a period of twenty years, each one an adventure in the life of one of Mr. Dobie's most loveable characters, the Bohemian baker Josef Vitek. The mist and sunshine of San Francisco and the wet smell of the ocean have their part in the adventures. The characters represent people of many nations, so that in their way, these stories make for a better understanding of one nation by another. Mr. Dobie is never the propagandist however, but always the artist. That is why you get the human point of view of the Alsatian landlady, the Greek friend, who has a kind heart under his cynical manner, the Japanese Ito, the old German woman whose Christmas cakes healed the breach that war made, the Russian princess and the Basque sorceress.

Warmth and motion pervade the book and the taste of foreign foods—sweet meats of candied honey flavored with rose geranium, broth of chicken with the taste of lemon, curds of goat's milk, rabbit stew seasoned with thyme and rosemary, pancakes smeared with sour cream and caviare.

The stories are told simply. Mr. Dobie does not have to have recourse to far-fetched effects or startling surprises. These are neither formula stories nor pot boilers. Because Mr. Dobie is an artist as we have said before, he does not drop down, he reaches up. He can stab your heart with a memory or call up the stuff of your ancient dreams at will. Passion, rat-red, love, forgiveness, the fundamental emotions shared by all of us, touch the life of Josef. In his way this simple baker who lives so happily bears the chrism of compassion and leaves his mark on the lives he touches. In turn "San Francisco Adventures" leaves you with a sense of peace and reassurance. It is a book to own and to pass on to those who will understand its language.

The Noel Coward cycle of nine short plays renewed interest in the theatre more than any of the recent plays that have come to the coast. We saw three of the cycle and we sat enthralled from the first glow of the footlights to the last curtain call.

We grew up in a town where a stock company played to a well-filled house. We don't mind saying that this was in the days before the movies became serious entertainment. On Saturday afternoons the children of the neighborhood gathered to go to the matinee. "Have you plenty of handkerchiefs?" we would ask each other with great concern on the afternoons of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Part of the joy of the play was to weep copiously and unashamed when little Eva died. What ecstatic tears we shed over the plight of Lady Isabel in East Lynne and the child in "Ten Nights in a Barroom." How breathlessly we watched the adventures of D'Aatagnan in "The Three Musketeers," a different version from the one presented in the movies recently. No Hollywood director can stir our imaginations today as the humble producer of this stock company did in his productions of "Quo Vadis." One play we were forbidden to see. That was "The Black Crook." We couldn't see it because there were ladies in it who wore—and the voice was discreetly lowered when the word was pronounced—"tights". But we were an uncircumspect lot and we exhibited no special curiosity beyond an examination of the posters. After all, there would be something good next week, perhaps, the "Brownies in Fairyland." But the Brownies are far removed from Noel Coward. What we're trying to say is that "the play's the thing" and we hope there will be more of them.

We heard Clifford Gessler himself tell the story the other afternoon that has been quoted a lot recently. You know that he has written the latest book on Hawaii. We haven't read it yet but we saw it in the shops and it is about as handsome a volume as you would want to see. Mr. Gessler lived in the Islands for many years and those who have read the book say that he has caught the spirit of the people and the place.

He was asked by a newspaperman: "Do you play the ukelele?" "No," he answered. "Do you dance the hula?" "No," again. "Then I congratulate you," the man said.

Mr. Gessler can talk just about on any subject that pertains to the islands. When we heard him, he talked about the "haunted islands" While he is not an imposing person, just the "you and me" sort of fellow, when he talks about Hawaii he seems to cast a spell over his audience. You can hear

Former Pirate Appointed Semi-Pro President

NEW YORK, (UP)—Fred Clarke, former manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was named president of the National Association of semi-pro baseball leagues in America today by Honus Wagner, commissioner of sandlot baseball.

Wagner explained that sandlot baseball leagues were being organized into one association patterned after organized baseball. He said more than 1000 leagues would hold membership next year.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR SEWAGE DISPOSAL PERMIT CITY OF PLACERVILLE

Notice is hereby given that the City of Placerville has filed with the State Board of Public Health application for permit to intercept sewage now discharged into Hangtown Creek and pipe it to a treatment plant site consisting of approximately 2 acres, located on the south side of Hangtown Creek contiguous to and just below the Associated Gas Company substation, and is 400 feet below the westerly city limits. At said site the sewage is to be treated in settling tanks and a bio-filter and effluent after chlorination will be discharged to Hangtown Creek, opposite the plant. Sludge, removed by the process, will be digested and gases collected and burned.

Further information on the project and the application may be gotten at the office of the City Clerk or at the office of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering, 3093 Life Sciences Building, Berkeley, California. Any protests based on nuisance or menace to health shall be filed with the State Board of Public Health at Sacramento on or before two weeks from date of this notice. Protests on grounds other than nuisance or menace to health cannot be considered by the Board.

the proverbial pin drop.

"When the red fish come to the harbor, a great chieftain dies," he told us. And he went on to describe the midnight march that used to accompany the body of an island prince. There were "distant mysterious drums, flair of torches, shrill wails, the toll of bells and the sound of chanting."

You are fascinated by the stories about the stars and portents that govern the lives of the people.

"The minor gods still have a place in Hawaiian tradition," Mr. Gessler declares, "Pele, the volcano goddess, goes about in the shape of an old woman begging food. Those who give to her are spared at the times of eruption. So few old women go hungry."

"A shark-god haunts the waters of pearl harbor. There is a mischievous sprite called the 'pig-child' who will toss rocks from heights and snuff a hiker's trail unless you make his proper offerings on leaves. Peki, the ghost dog, grows to a monstrous size and is seen floating over the tree tops. Indeed, the age of wonder is not dead in Hawaii."

"White Flame" Slayer's Hearing On Thursday

LOS ANGELES, (UP)—District Attorney's investigators and Glendale police co-ordinated their efforts today in the investigation into the "white flame" slaying of Mrs. Evelyn Wright, 28, and John Kimmel, 35, after expressing the belief that Paul A. Wright, 38, husband and confessed slayer of the couple, was withholding evidence.

Wright was transferred to the county jail here over the week-end and will appear for preliminary hearing, Thursday.
